Howdy Ags!

This issue wraps up the '24-'25 school year and inside we feature our top 12 stories of the year along with some of our favorite pictures. We want to congratulate Coach Pat Henry and the men's track & field team for bringing home their fifth national championship. We'd also like to congratulate our women's track & field squad for earning a third place finish at the NCAA Championships in Eugene, Oregon. The track teams helped give Texas A&M a No.15 finish in the Learfield Directors' Cup.

Coach Mark Weaver's women's tennis team once again returned to the national championship match in Waco and earned the runner-up title in this year's tournament.

As we enter the dog days of summer our football team is working hard in this heat to prepare for next season. Marcel Reed returns as our starting quarterback and the running game should be much improved with the comeback of Le'Veon Moss and a healthy Rueben Owens. They will line up behind one of the best and most veteran offensive lines in the country. With the wide receivers we added through the portal and under the direction of second year offensive coordinator Collin Klein we are expecting big things from the Aggie offense.

Coach Elko has committed to being much more involved in the defense next season. With our captain Taurean York anchoring the Aggie defense along with a veteran group in the defensive backfield and a D- line hungry to make a name for themselves, we are excited for our football team to take it to the next level.

Gig'em!

MAROON & WHITE GAME

The 12th Man got their first look at the 2025 football team when the Aggies competed in the Maroon & White Game on April 19th. Freshman Marco Jones displayed his talents on the White team, as the talented freshman had five sacks. At wide receiver, Izaiah Williams hauled in four catches for 51 yards and a touchdown in the Whites 19-7 victory. Standouts for the Maroon squad included KC Concepcion, who led all receivers with seven receptions for 64 yards, while Mississippi State transfer Mario Craver added 78 yards on five catches. Marcus Ratcliffe led the defense with six tackles. Returning wide receiver Ashton Bethel-Roman scored the only touchdown on the day for the Maroon squad when he reeled in a 15-yard score. ■
